Setting the Record Straight

Drivers in a production model Chevrolet Corvette ZR1 set five speed records in separate trials at some of America's premiere racing venues.

“Corvette ZR1 continues to showcase how this nameplate elevates at every corner,” Corvette executive chief engineer Tony Roma said in a news release. “From design, engineering, development, validation, to driving and setting incredible lap records like these — we do it all in house.”

The Corvette ZR1, equipped with carbon fiber high-downforce rear wing, front dive planes and a tall hood Gurney lip, also incorporated stiffer springs and Michelin Pilot Sport Cup 2R ZP tires during its record runs, the company said. The company announced the courses, speeds and drivers for the records:

- Watkins Glen Long Course (3.45 miles): 1 minute, 52.7 seconds. Driver: Bill Wise, lead performance engineer, chassis controls.
- Road America (4.048 miles): 2:08.6. Driver: Brian Wallace, lead vehicle dynamics engineer.
- Road Atlanta (2.54 miles): 1:22.8. Driver: Chris Barber, lead development engineer.
- Virginia International Raceway Full Course (3.27 miles): 1:47.7. Driver: Aaron Link, global vehicle performance manager.
- Virginia International Raceway Grand Course (4.2 miles): 2:32.3. Driver: Aaron Link.

Big $ Big $ Big $ for the American Red Cross

On Saturday, January 25th, the first retail production 2025 Chevrolet Corvette ZR1, VIN 001, sold at the Barrett-Jackson Scottsdale Auction for $3.7 million. 100 percent of the hammer price of this Barrett-Jackson charity auction benefits the American Red Cross. Chevrolet selected the Red Cross to benefit disaster relief efforts in areas impacted by hurricanes Helene and Milton, as well as general relief to help people affected by disasters big and small, including wildfires, storms and countless other crises.

This ties the record donation for a charity vehicle at Barrett-Jackson set in 2022 by the first retail 2023 Corvette Z06 70th Anniversary Edition.

“The 1064 hp Corvette ZR1 is the pinnacle of American engineering,” said Scott Bell, vice president, Global Chevrolet. “We at Chevrolet are proud to work with Barrett-Jackson and the Red Cross so that the historic sale of this American icon benefits people whose lives were impacted by hurricanes Helene and Milton, countless disasters across the country.”

Corvette Chief Engineer Josh Holder introduced the quickest, fastest and most powerful Corvette ever before an engaged audience of bidders in the room and around the world, alongside representatives from the Red Cross. Minutes later, the winning bid was placed by Rick Hendrick, founder and CEO of Hendrick Companies.

General Motors and Chevrolet maintain a long-standing relationship with the Red Cross and regularly support the organization’s disaster relief efforts.

“The Red Cross is working around the clock to provide help and hope to people across the country impacted by disasters big and small, including wildfires, floods and other crises,” said Cliff Holtz, president and CEO of the American Red Cross. “We cannot thank Chevrolet enough for their tremendous generosity as we work together to offer critical relief and comfort to families and communities in dire need.”

Thanks to more than 15 years working with Barrett-Jackson and their charity auction program, Chevrolet has generated millions of dollars in donations for many great causes. This auction brings the total amount of money Chevrolet has raised at Barrett-Jackson charity auctions through the sale of eighth generation Corvettes to $12.9 million.
